

What it is

There are several complementary tools that Raven integrates with to expand solution offerings for customers with varying industry verticals and feature requirements. Integrations allow customers to take advantage of expanded offerings while leveraging the best-in-class solutions for each need.

How it works

From the back end, the Raven Connected team works alongside partnering organizations to build API endpoints through identified data points of interest to enhance an offering. We are now starting to expose these integrations to end customers via the Raven Web App for self-implementation.

How to use it

Integrations with partnering organizations can be enabled from the Web App. To enable an integration on your account:

1. From the Web App, select the settings tab from the menu.
2. Scroll to the 'Integrations' section.
3. All exposed integrations will be found and can be configured in this section. Stay tuned for future available integrations.
4. At this time, the first integration to be exposed in user settings is for Fleetio, the Fleet Maintenance provider. For instructions on configuring the integration, check out the support article here.
5. Other available integrations available by request to Raven Support can be found on our partners and integrations page.
